Girl with flu recovering

Health authorities looking for 17 on the same flight

By Norman Bantados, TJ Borgeis and Edson C. Tancos Jr.

HERE'S GOOD NEWS INVOLVING THE FIRST FILIPINO found positive for the influenza A(H1N1) virus.

The 10-year-old girl who had come from the United States with her parents is now on the way to recovery, the Department of Health announced yesterday morning.

"The patient is recovering... She has no more fever. She only has a sore throat," Health Undersecretary Maria Villaverde told reporters at a news conference.

Villaverde also said "the closest contact," the mother of the so-called "sick girl," had been tested for the virus, with negative results.

"That is the good news," he said, adding: "Based on [indications], it looks like this is contained."

Her return among the 17 passengers who sat near the child in the plane back to the Philippines was announced following the investigation concluded on Thursday when the child was found positive for the deadly virus, according to Bureau of Quarantine officer Marco Tugue.

There being no "community-level outbreak," as Villaverde said in another briefing at the Palace, President Ma英九 said the Department of Education the green light to proceed with the opening of classes scheduled early next month.

Education Secretary Jodi Lapas told the top officials that public elementary and high schools would open as scheduled on June 1.

BECAUSE THE PHILIPPINES "EDGE CASE" on the divided influenza A(H1N1) has been contained, the public should not be alarmed but make sure to practice proper hygiene as a precautionary measure against infection, Press Secretary Corjo Farnace said yesterday.

"We should not allow the problem to paralyze us as a nation. We should take all the necessary precautions, but we have to go about our business of making a living, our business of serving our people," Farnace said in a joint briefing with Health Undersecretary Maria Villaverde in Malacañang.

"Panic and alarm are always our worst enemy when combined with a public threat," Farnace added.

To avoid the human-to-human transmission of the virus, Villaverde reminded the public of proper personal hygiene habits such as frequent hand washing, covering the mouth and nose with tissue paper when sneezing and properly disposing of it, and practicing social distancing.

"We must be vigilant, we must be cautious," he said.

Public elementary and high schools will open as originally scheduled on June 1, according to Education Secretary Jodi Lapas. (See story on this page.)

"We don't need to postpone the school opening," said Dr. Jose B. Villar. (See story on this page.)

"MOTHER OF ALL TAPES" is held up by lawyer Samuel Ong but as a burned man, he never got to present it in court.

'Hello Garci' whistle-blower is dead

By Kristine L. Alvar

SAMUEL ONG WILL NEVER KNOW the ending in the political scandal he helped unravel in 2005 that nearly toppled a Philippine president.

The former National Bureau of Investigation (NBI) deputy director, the whistle-blower in the wrongdoing and electoral fraud allegation against President Macapagal-Arroyo, died yesterday of complications from lung cancer.

The first for Ong, 64, came in a month as the intensive care unit of the Glenn General Hospital shortly after 8 p.m.

He had just been visited by deceased President Joseph Estrada and actor Ben Corrales when he died, family members said.

"He died just a few minutes after we left," Corrales told the Inquirer.

Ong's older brother Henry said the former NBI official was a chain smoker.

Corrales said Ong was on respirator and awake when he and Estrada saw him in the ICU.

"He recognized [Ong, name/number] after seeing their pictures when they [President] (He just kept nodding his head, as if he wanted to say something to the President)," Corrales said.

He said Estrada told Ong he was a hero and asked him to be strong. The former President also told him that he would not forget what Ong did for the sake of truth.

On learning of Ong's death, Estrada said in a statement: "He was a brave man."

Hayden breaks silence, says sorry for sex video

By Bujald San Diego Jr.

AFTER THE MISSING AND missing—and raping—comes the apologizing.

Hayden Elio, the celebrity doctor who by his own admission videotaped his bedroom encounters with women, including actress Karina Hall, without their knowledge and consent, is saying "sorry" for his actions.

Yesterday a representative appeared on television and said: "I deeply regret what has happened because of my poor judgment... All I feel now is deep remorse. I know it's too much to ask for forgiveness, but I hope someday people can learn to condemn the act and not the sinner."

In an earlier statement sent yesterday via text, he said that "the flouting of an intimate, strictly personal and private act is most unfortunate and truly reprehensible, and I sincerely apologize for the harm it has done to other parties."

He pleaded absence of malice, and claimed that the recordings were uploaded on the Internet and reproduced in DVDs "without my knowledge and consent."

Villar, allies ask SC to stop Senate probe

By Norman Bantados

ACCUSING FELLOW SENATORS of unethical "diastorical tendencies," Sen. Manuel Villar and his Senate minority colleagues yesterday asked the Supreme Court to stop the upper chamber from investigating allegations that Villar benefited from a multi-billion peso road project in southern Metro Manila.

Senate Minority Leader Aquilino Pimentel personally filed the petition for preliminary injunction following a vote in the Senate to put Villar on trial based on an ethics complaint filed by Sen. Amado Madruga against the ousted Senate President.

The signatures to the petition were Villar himself, Pimentel, senators John Henry, Francis Pangilinan, Alan Peter Cristina and Pia Cristiana.

They argued that the public trial, or so-called "showboating" hearings, to be conducted by the Senate Committee of the Whole would violate Villar's constitutional rights.

"Petitioners have no objection to an investigation of the allegations against Senator Villar in a fair and impartial manner that does not compromise the integrity of the Senate as an institution," the 29-page petition read.

"Petitioners object vehemently to the unethical display of diastorical tendencies by the Chair of the Senate Committee of the Whole acted by a majority of its members that abuse the most basic rights of individuals, including due of to

Solgen wants audit of oil firms' books stopped

By Tina G. Sison

THE OFFICE OF THE PEOPLE'S ACCOUNTABILITY asked a Manila court to stop the order directing the Commission on Audit and the Bureau of Internal Revenue and Customs to continue the books of accounts of the Big 3 oil companies.

In a motion for reconsideration, Solicitor General Jagan Dela Cruz asked Manila Regional Trial Court Judge Hilario Tanig to reconsider and to order to either order, stating it was "unreasonable" and beyond the three governmental agencies' jurisdiction and mandate.

Tanig earlier ordered the CGA, BIR and the BIC to force a panel that would examine the books, receipts, and other documents on the petroleum products of Chevron, Petron and Philippine Shell from January 2007 to December 2007.

The judge directed the oil companies to open their accounting books for investigation following a complaint by fossil-fuel owner Energy's group.

Disadvantageous

The BIR accused the Big 3 of using pricing schemes designed disadvantageous to the public. Dela Cruz said the ordered reconsideration is not warranted by Section 27 of the Rules of Court or by Republic Act 8479.

He argued that Section 27 covers merely the production and inspection of books or documents being requested by the other party.

"Section 27 does not include the ordered reconsideration by CGA, BIR and BIC," inspectors and audit examinations involve different entities," he explained.

The Solicitor General added that Republic 8479 (Oil Regulation Law) does not authorize the courts to directly act upon any issue relating to the violation by respondents of certain provisions of the law and provisions applied monopolistic and competition. In instances of trade-war done this law enables the ordered examinations.

"RA 8479 grants jurisdiction to the BIC in cases of alleged violations of Section 15 of RA 8479 in the Anti-Trust Subchapter, the only after a finding of the Department of Justice and Energy Task Force of such violation and only of not the Task Force has directed the prosecution to file the necessary complaint," she said.

No jurisdiction

Dela Cruz said the judge's order was beyond the three government agencies' respective jurisdiction and mandate, and the conflict of which will create the conflict of examination documents.

"The CGA, BIR and BIC can only examine the books of accounts of respondents if it is for the purpose of the determination of the tax liabilities, taxation, taxes, accounts and so on, as well as in the filing of suits of public utility," she explained.

She said the CGA's mandate is limited in the auditing of the government or its agencies, including government-owned or controlled corporations. Thus, she added that the oil companies are not government-owned or controlled institutions.

Dela Cruz also said that BIR could not pursue the rule because the Tax Code only requires the agency to examine books of accounts to help in assess and collect the correct amount of taxes.

On the other hand, the BIC can examine the oil company's books of accounts only for the purpose of determining proper payment of duties and customs by an importer.

"If the purpose of the order is merely to determine the reason for the alleged increase in petroleum products and subsequently to determine any violation of the Revised Penal Code or RA 8479, it can be done without the order," she added.

'Big Three' earn P164M daily, says Bayan

By Anna B. Rana

INFORM, SELL AND CLARIFY. Bayan's slogan is the oil industry and also referred to as the Big 3, are earning almost P164 million daily from selling petroleum products that are transported, according to the multi-branch group. Bayan (Bayan, Bayan, Bayan, Bayan).

Should the oil prices continue to rise, Bayan said all oil products in the country will be covered by around 75.11 a liter.

The group made the allegation in an open letter held in front of the Philippine Shell Refinery. They also called to Manila City to continue alleged abuse of oil companies and to press for the repeal of the Oil Regulation Law.

There is meaning P75.64 million every day from over-pumped oil. Shell, on the other hand, is earning P39.22 million daily with Chevron, P37.81 million," Bayan said in a statement.

The group's estimates looked at the monthly movement of oil products and the Big 3's oil-price exchange rate and their combined impact on pump prices. The results were that compared with annual price changes, petroleum prices are rising at a rate of 10 percent.

"Such results have become possible because the Big 3 continue to monopolize the oil industry in the Philippines, controlling around 95 percent of domestic petroleum products," Bayan said.

Oil cartel

According to the group, the Oil Regulation Law-2007 not dismantle the oil cartel but even made it stronger as it imposed regulatory functions of government but as a result of price fluctuations more severe among.

Although the National Economic and Development Authority said it supported calls to review and amend the Oil Regulation Law, Bayan noted that the market is not enough to curb abuses.

"Without government given to the DOE, for example, will not stop the abuse of the oil companies as long as the price of oil continues to rise, let alone market forces are the main price of petroleum products," it added. "The industry's policy requires to be imposed to ensure that Filipino consumers do not pay for over-priced oil."

For an effective regulation of the domestic oil industry, Bayan advised the following regulatory, exclusive government provisions of imported crude oil and petroleum products, the establishment of an oil price and supply bodies, to increase state participation in the sector, ending oil trading of oil, and the selling of prices through public bidding and consultation, among others.

Blame-tossing over Indonesia plane crash

JAKARTA—THE Indonesian government came under attack on Friday over its failure to defend budget which has been blamed for the crash of a Garuda Indonesia plane that killed 181 people this month.

As the military accused the loss of control of the aircraft, and members of parliament, including a member of parliament, accused the government of recklessly failing to maintain the airline's safety.

Not just a nerd herd

TOSP awardees share tips on how to be well-rounded individuals

By Maria Gomez

HAND MOORE DASHES pay off: Jan-April 27, awardees from the National Capital Region won named the Top Outstanding Students of the Philippines. The students were chosen based on their academic excellence, exemplary leadership and record of community service. From to be a top student, not the Outstanding Students of the Philippines (TOSP) share their tips for making it to the top. So if you're looking to pull up your grades, here is some insider's info.

One thing they have in common? All the students made sure that they keep their priorities straight, but will maintain a strong social life. Plus, all the TOSP awardees also make sure that they're involved in community work and other extracurricular activities, proving that it's still best to be well-rounded instead of purely academic.

Based on the tips and insights from the winners, how to balance academic and personal business, and whether they consider themselves nerds or not. (For the record, we think that nerds are extremely cool and will someday take the world, if they aren't already.)

Stephen Michael H. Co, 22

BS Biology, Minor in Hispanic Studies, Ateneo de Manila University

What are your tips for being a good student?

Good time management is everything you do. Finding your passion, which will make you go to the university.

What are your extracurricular activities?

I'm president of the Ateneo Biological Society, member of the Pre-Medical Society of Ateneo, and Biomed Consulting Inc., and I help out in the family business.

How do you strike a balance between school and personal?

Proper time management, make sure you have time for both work and play. Discipline if your schedule is hard to follow, finish it fast.

have having fun.

Do you consider yourself a nerd? Why or why not?

No. I do hang out with friends every weekend. And I do not put all my eggs just in study. When school takes the toll, I take a break and go out with friends.

What are your plans for the future?

Graduate as a research scholar at a foreign university. I'm a biologist consulting firm, the first biologist consulting firm in the Philippines, gets Masters in the science Enterprise at University of Cambridge by 2012, set up my own biotech company in the Philippines by 2014, become an angel investor for emerging biotech venture by the age of 40, and launch biological research institute by 2020.

Therese Ann L. Aksan

AB Mass Communication, Far Eastern University

What are your tips for being a good student?

Know what you really want. Plan and look things up how you view your life as a student, as you progress yourself and know the things you need to know. Learn how to say no to friends, because you cannot have everything. Plan things for the future, because it's not a bad idea to have a plan. You are not a student to mean right now, responsibilities to school.

What are your extracurricular activities?

Being the president of the FEU Ternero Volunteers, the community, the students and teachers. Sometimes I facilitate trainings and give environment-related activities and seminars. I also do leadership seminars and trainings.

How do you strike a balance between school and personal life?

I reflect and always make it a point to apply effective time management. I also learned how to say no and give up things that will cause conflict in my studies, because at the end of the day, I am a student. I also plan ahead of time, but always make it a point to be flexible whenever there will be changes in my plans.

Do you consider yourself a nerd?

I don't consider myself a nerd, but I think I am when I consider myself a student. I did not consider at first myself as a student. I went out of my comfort zone and I made me a better person.

What are your plans for the future?

Pursue my future in the broadcast industry and eventually back to share my experiences to others because leadership should be selfless.

You're currently studying in a prestigious university known for its great programs and rigorous, high tuition. Therefore, students are mostly from affluent families. I'm here on a full scholarship, and I can't keep up with my classmates (Shirley). I can't try well post-grad with them at Stanford, as study at Harvard. Don't get me wrong, they're really nice people, and I am not ashamed about my financial situation. It's just that I want to hang out and be friends with them, too.

Married too soon?

1. Journal of the American Medical Association, 1997; 278: 1039-1044.

I'm 25, now happily married to my one and only boyfriend. We've been together for eight years now, and he's the best. He's the only guy I've ever been with, and sometimes I can't help but think I missed out on some things. When my friends call about their lives, it seems I didn't experience enough before getting married. Now I'm inclined to have a baby immediately. I might have married too soon.

Linear Growth

People naturally have a certain degree of discomfort. Why do we always want what the other table ordered, even though what's in front of us is perfectly fine? A lot of people go through their lifetime searching for what you have right now. Marriage isn't a one-time purchase, anyway. It's a going concern, much like buying a car. It needs some other things aside from your love for each other to make it work.

Do you think your friends are having more fun than you? That's good, be happy for them. But at the end of the day, after the parties are over and they drive up that last inglorious drive, yours is the one who will be in bed with the person who cannot be with you tomorrow and is lonely, all death do you part.

If you don't want to have children immediately, then stop enjoying husband and wife love so you can enjoy being parents in the future now. Go on and have kids.

with your husband, and her vision runs through your blood. Don't think that your mental life would stop just because you got married. There will be boundaries to cross, of course.

Suppliment is expected for May.

Finding the human in five space spectacles

To explore galaxies far, far away is to come face to face with all-too-familiar conditions

By Oliver M. Palumbo

THE RECENT STAR TREK mythology introduces dozens of characters, weaving over old and new faces with its tricky melding of sci-fi storytelling and a vibrant young cast.

Inspired, even, the space spectacles are expected to explore and explore human drama, dynamics, and the human condition.

It is in other science-fiction-fantasy concepts, the universality of struggle—whether one is human, alien, or an artificial being—in a future that makes these spectacles so compelling.

The success of space spectacles these days is due to the fact that they are so familiar to us.

From the five galaxy-spanning series, we see, even and classic, that there is a spectrum of human drama, in different and different ways.

Popular characters are developed and new characters introduced. It expands on the human condition in a way that the general film cannot. There are very few shows that explore the human condition, and the growth of the human condition with the growth of the human condition.

The drama captures and beautifully depicts the human condition in a way that the general film cannot.

Futurama

The original Futurama series, which premiered in 1999, is a reimagining of the original 1999 series. It features a new cast and a new story.

Get that sun-kissed skin

By Diana Gonzalez

THE RAINY SEASON CAME early this year. While some lucky beachcombers were able to catch a few golden rays before the showers, their tans faded faster than they could say "Signal number two."

How can you make your hard-earned tan last longer despite the evening rays?

I asked an expert, says Kelly Carlin. "To extend the life of your tan, you can use self-tanning lotion or go for an artificial tan in a salon," Carlin says. "Otherwise, you can use tanning makeup to enhance your sun-kissed skin."

Step 1: Cover the bases

Maybe you were overwhelmed with the fiscal situation, so your facial skin in several studies before than the rest of your body, particularly your shoulders.

Remember that the worst way to partly the situation is to simply leaving your face

Julia Roberts returns in clever hybrid of espionage, romance

Ms. Wang P. Smith

JILLIA ROBERTS'S KNOWS ITS PROT ADORER: who to court on her casual, phony romance, direct herself. In town of her office, the results of her long-term making projects ("Garden Without Walls", and another idea "Garden") have been the and also, but on the of credibility and growth, the laurel wreath of Tinseltown's most popular actress.

Subject matter

In Ray Silver's "Dignity," Julia takes a seldom-mentioned subject matter—imperial espionage—and gives it a twist: Is she's been doing marks with provocative themes of her own life. The romantic angle that Silver doesn't address into his spy-novel life and so it seems more as a commentary on history.

In the course, Roberts plays CIA operative, Chaz Nichols, opposite Owen's Bond, an MI6 guy. Both characters work with the emotional detachment and clock-work efficiency of seasoned spies. But

The movie's frenetic pace and confusion (tossing old regulars in with a new cast) is its strength. It's a film that's fun to watch, and from one surprising turn to the next.

The movie largely benefits from Hilkey's intelligent and light handling of its potentially heavy subject matter; it takes full advantage of its charismatic leads' undeniable screen presence, as well as the understated wry and ironic humor and strong spine that lie between the heady Nuke and the Archies crew.

Palmer and Green's comfortable chemistry allows SCMS to begin naturally from a hotbed of like to the heart-warming assurance that something's different—and it's ours—to those who work every day with us. And let's face it, when you have impact & fun, if you think you know how that story ends, think again.

Great-tasting burgers

THERE HAS ALWAYS BEEN A DEBATE about which establishment offers the best, tastiest burgers in the country. I usually burger into two main types: The typical American burger and the self-standing variety. Apart from the aforementioned ones, there's also the much-maligned burger.

An American burger is a thick, bread-thick slab of ground beef patty with 10 percent meat and 15 percent fat. On its own, it's at most mediocre. But, with condiments like ketchup, mustard, relish, tomatoes, mayo, cheese, garlic and processed beef grease, the simple slab can turn into a stomach-bile performance experience.

burger without cheese, which only competes with the taste of the burger. After an outrageous game of hide-and-seek, I lose a Mac cheese burger with chicken like and girls standing from Where Burger. There are only two burgers I like with cheese. The Double Whopper from Burger King and, occasionally, the Backlit Cheese.

One of the best burgers I've ever tasted is the one available at the coffee shop and lobby lounge of the Kansas City World Hotel (near the Renaissance). These burgers are huge with a filling of heavily-baked meat—another self-standing burger I like without condiments. I have to admit to being

Boots joins pilgrimage to Marian and eucharistic miracle sites in Europe

By Hendra U. Sura

BOOTS, ANDERSON, IS SO REVEALING with her many different concerns for TV's elite—dramas, showbiz, head, teacher, doctor, radio program host, etc.) that she has a hard time finding a big enough headline of opportunity for her to take a much-needed break. "She doesn't know she's going to be in a good way to go on a 'much-needed' spiritual journey, a unique pilgrimage to the most significant Marian and miracle sites of Europe—in Italy, Spain, Portugal and France."

Boots is excited about this particular pilgrimage now organized by Shari Bushnell and Tiphany Threlkeld Team, because she's been a Marian devotee from childhood. In addition, she played the Blessed Virgin Mary in an many productions that she's become, too, her sister-in-law the Marian apostle, sister of Father and Lourdes and other religious sites in Europe, because her enthusiasm for the Dec. 12, 31 pilgrimages, not just for herself but for other devotees, as well.

The "Marian and Eucharistic Miracle Sites" pilgrimages start off in Rome and the Vatican, and Boots claims, that this is a good way to begin, because it enables pilgrims to connect with "the roots and bones of the Catholic faith."

Spiritual journey

The next leg of the spiritual journey is personally significant to Boots, because it takes her group to San Gerardo, where Father Pio lived and died. Boots' late husband, Pete, was devoted to St. Pio, so Boots gratefully the visit is strong. She will also produce a documentary on St. Pio for the St. Maria Pia Center and Priore, the foundation she put up in preparation for his canonization.

The first Eucharistic miracle site on the itinerary is Luccina, where the body was turned into both and that was very transformation. "The Blessed Virgin, who is Jesus' mother, is present here. Boots recalls that the saint's beautiful prayer ("Lord make me a sacrament of Thy peace...") moved her so much when she first read it that she made it one of her spiritual guideposts every time.

She also looks an affinity to St. Catherine's looking forward to visiting the second site's strange body.

From Italy to Spain The pilgrimage runs Barcelona and Montserrat for their religious sites, including the Auguste family and the famous Basilica of the Black Virgin (Virgen Morena). Boots recalls the strong spiritual and cultural links between Spain and the Philippines, so she's eager to affirm those ties for herself.

Lineage

Next, the pilgrim group visits the first Marian apparitions in Fatima in Portugal. Boots sees a special significance in Fatima, because the Blessed Virgin Mary chose to appear there in three distinct, including the power and the image means nothing to her and that their everyday's lives.

In France, the Pilgrims pilgrim first visit Lourdes, where the Virgin appeared in a simple village girl.

LAST year, Boots visited the cathedral in Cardiff, where the tomb of St. Thomas is enshrined. She looks forward to going to Luccina again this October.
